DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-12, drawn to an apparatus conveyor worm and a curved tubular feed intended to be used to separate fibers from a steam source via centrifugal force.

Group II, claim(s) 13, drawn to a method for separating fibers via centrifugal force.

2. The inventions listed as Groups I and II do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

Groups I and II do not have common special technical features a posteriori and therefore lack unity. The common technical feature 'a tubular curved such that steam and fibers are separated under the influence of centrifugal forces' (also see specification pg. 2 – 3) is in known in the art and therefore is not a special technical feature. U.S. Patent 1,861,247 discloses the use of curved inlets for gas/ solids separations and that said inlets effect the separation by way of centrifugal forces "curved inlet pipe shown and described for directing material laden air into a classifying receptacle through a side wall thereof serves to impart a pronounced whirling movement to the air within the receptacle to effect a centrifugal separation of the particles within the air [see e.g. column 4 lines 5 through 20 and Figures 2 and 3 which show curved inlets]". Therefore the use of curved inlets to effect separation of gases from solids is known in the art. Further the use of non-cyclonic mechanical separation was known in the art as evidenced by the installation of 'PERISPLITTERS' prior to the application date [see e.g. Table 1 RISI article by Ulf Eriksson installations in 2000/2001/2003]. Mechanical steam separation is also taught in U.S. Patent 4,954,221 in which steam is separated from fiber being fed into a refiner without the use of a cyclone [abstract and figure 1].

3. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.
